DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 34 – 45, drawn to a device for the controlled local delivery of rifaxamin comprising rifaximicin and a biphasic material.

Group II, claim(s) 46, drawn to a method for the delivery of rifaximin in the oral cavity comprising utilizing a device for the controlled local delivery of rifaxamin comprising rifaximicin and a biphasic material.

Group III, claim(s) 47 – 50, drawn to a process for the preparation of a device for the controlled local delivery of rifaxamin comprising rifaximicin and a biphasic material.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I – III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features. Groups I – III lack unity of invention because even though the inventions of these groups require the technical feature of a device for the controlled local delivery of rifaxamin comprising rifaximicin and a biphasic material, this technical feature is not a special feature as it does not make a contribution over the prior art in view of Mantelle et al. (WO 99/15210). Mantelle et al. discloses bioadhesive compositions of material such as substituted or unsubstituted celluloses and polysaccharides (p 9, ¶ 1 – 2), which read on the polymeric matrix of the biphasic material, that can contain rifaximin (p 20, middle of page). As these compositions are bioadhesive, they absorb a certain number of times its weight in water, which reads on interstitial water filling up the pores of said matrix.

3. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

The composition of device

Species Election Requirement

If group I or II is elected above, Applicant is required to elect the specific composition of the device, including the polymeric material present and if required, the bioadhesive polymer.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

4. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Groups I and II – claims 36 – 38 recite specific polymeric matrixes while claim 37 requires an additional ingredient, a bio-adhesive polymer.

The following claim(s) are generic: claim 34 – 36 and 41 – 46.

5. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: as discussed above, the common technical feature is not a special technical feature. The various polymers are distinct polymers with different features, affecting the device.

Joint Inventorship

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Rejoinder Notice

7. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
